Old Vines Restaurant Gets 'Ocean Wise'

KELOWNA, BC, August 16, 2007 – Old Vines Restaurant has made the commitment to become one of three restaurants in the Okanagan to join Ocean Wise, the Vancouver Aquarium conservation program dedicated to raising the awareness of sustainable seafood options for consumers.

Quails' Gate Estate Winery and its onsite restaurant, Old Vines Restaurant are continually exploring new ways to enhance our environmental and educational programs. The choice to support sustainable seafood is a positive way to increase customers' awareness and inspire them to make more environmentally friendly food choices. By working closely with Ocean Wise, Old Vines Restaurant is dedicated to removing unsustainable seafood from the menu. In doing this, sustainable seafood menu items will now be identified with the Ocean Wise logo.

In keeping with Quails' Gate's commitment to quality and sustainability, Winery Chef Roger Sleiman seeks out only the finest local ingredients to showcase the natural bounty of our beautiful province and fully embraces our partnership with Ocean Wise. For more information on Ocean Wise, please visit oceanwisecanada.org.

Quails' Gate prides itself in providing one of the finest food and wine experiences in the Okanagan Valley. Wine and food are meant for each other. As a winery restaurant, it demonstrates the culinary magic of wine and food pairing. The recently renovated year-round dining room glows and entices diners with its earthy ambience and endless lake and mountain views. Inspiration in your own backyard, the Wineshop and Old Vines Restaurant are open year round offering tastings, lunch and dinner.
